IOCA Meet Will Be Held At Breadloaf

SIXTY DELEGATES TO CONVENE MAY 9

Sixty delegates representing twenty eastern colleges will participate in the Intercollegiate Outing Club Association's annual convention to be held on Breadloaf Mountain from May 9 to 11.

Included on the program of events for the convention are a lecture by P. Conant Voter, professor of chemistry, a discussion on I.O.C.A. policies, a square dance, the election of next year's officers, a hiking expedition, and a series of informal events to provide some lighter moments for the gathering.

The twenty colleges which plan to attend this conference are mainly from the New England and the New York areas. These colleges include Harvard, Cornell, M. I. T., University of New Hampshire, St. Lawrence, Bennington, Union, Mt. Holyoke, R. P. I., Skidmore, Connecticut, McGill, Wheaton, Holy Cross, Springfield, and Vassar.

The conference will begin Friday night with an informal meeting for delegates to become acquainted. Saturday morning's activities include registration of the representatives and Professor Voter's lecture on the Green Mountain Long Trail. In the afternoon the convention will conduct an official agenda discussion at which they will consider such matters as I.O.C.A. policies and constitution, hike exchanges, safety equipment and measures, and in-

Chinese Speaker Requests Funds For WSSF Drive

The World Student Service Fund opened its drive at Middlebury last Monday, with a goal of $2,000 set for college contributions.

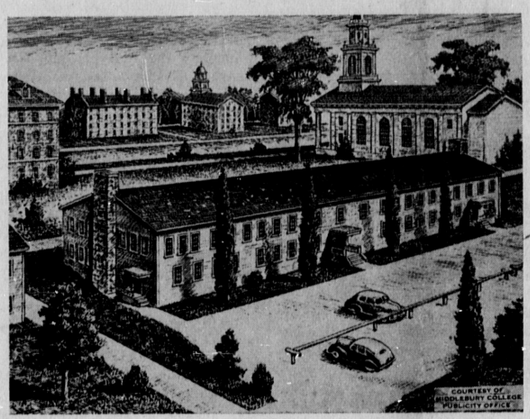
Miss Chang Shen, a Chinese student and worker in the present W. S. S. F. drive, arrived at Middlebury Monday as a guest speaker to solicit for the drive. Miss Chang spoke to the Women's College in Forest East living room from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday night. Tuesday morning Miss Chang spoke to the students of Dr. Rafuse's political theory class and to Dr. Madden's social psychology class. At noon she ate in Gifford and then spoke to a meeting of W. S. S. F. canvassers. Tuesday night she spoke to all interested students in Munroe hall.

The "Starvation Supper," a project of the W.S.S.F. committee, was served to the entire campus Monday night and was modeled directly after the daily menu at the University of Athens in Greece. The money saved in the dining halls by this one-meal slash in calories amounted to approximately $350.

Dr. Stephen A. Freeman, speaking to the junior-senior chapel on Monday, opened the drive with an address concerning the final destination and uses of the contributions to the W. S. S. F. Also John R. Illick, of the geography department, spoke to the student body this week on behalf of the drive. These talks were prefaced last week by George H. Booth '47 who spoke in chapel Friday, Thomas L. Lyall '48 who spoke Saturday, and Roswell T. Edwards, Jr. '49 who spoke to the college faculty at an A. U. P. meeting Friday night.

The W.S.S.F. received just under $400 from the page of advertisments in last week's issue of the CAMPUS. With the arrival of the G.I. checks and with daily personal canvassing of the faculty and students, the W.S.S.F. committee hopes to reach its goal by the end of this week.

Artist's Conception of Student Union Building



An artist's conception of the new Student Union building as it will appear when erected on the campus. Contractors have already surveyed the site, and it is expected that the building will be ready for use in the fall.

Election of N.S.O. Delegate to Be Held

Any underclassman of the women's college will be eligible to act as Middlebury's delegate to the constitutional convention of the National Student Organization which will be held at the University of Wisconsin the first two weeks of September, 1947.

The motion to send a delegate to this convention and thereby become charter members of the N. S. O. was recently approved by a majority of the members of the women's college. The delegate will be elected by the entire women's college in the last week of May. Out of the first group of applicants an election committee shall pick the six most qualified to participate in the convention. These six candidates shall each be required to make a ten-minute speech in daily chapel during the week of May 19. The popular election will take place the following week.

The N. S. O. is to be formally set up at this meeting. The Chicago student conference which took place last fall was a preliminary meeting in which delegates put forth suggestions and ideas of how such an organization should function. The national continuation committee has worked during the spring with these suggestions and has proposed a constitution for the convention. The delegates at the convention will have the job of setting up a constitution which will serve the needs of the students. They may amend, revise or completely change that constitution proposed by the N. C. C.

Dean M. Williams Addresses Women

The strengthening of the advisory powers of the Women's Assembly advisory committee was advocated by Dr. Mary F. Williams, newly appointed Dean of Women, at a meeting of the Women's Student Union, May 2, in Mead Memorial Chapel.

The provisions for this committe as now defined by the constitution are, "There shall be appointed annually, before the end of the spring semester, by the president of the college, an advisory committee of three women not members of the Student Union."

Dr. Williams pointed out that the wording of the particular article does not specify what the duties of the committee will be or when it will meet.

The dean offered the suggestion that the advisory committee should work in conjunction with a committee of no more than seven women chosen from the assem-

S. Stratton Clarifies 'Daily News' Story

President Samuel S. Stratton, in an interview last Tuesday, took occasion to clarify the great bulk of quotations cited by the Burlington Daily News in an article suggesting a "fight for academic freedom" at Middlebury College.

The Daily News intimated an atmosphere of dissension with an "irate student body" contesting decisions of the administration, culminating in the refusal of the Board of Trustees to renew the contract of Robert W. Rafuse, assistant professor of political science. The story appeared after an interview with President Stratton by a Daily News reporter.

President Stratton commented that student protests when faculty members leave are common, but denied that there had been any organized faculty opposition to this particular departure, and assured the CAMPUS that no rift existed between him and the Board of Trustees.

He acknowledge the quotations attributed to him by the Daily News, examined their relevance, and concluded that the article was based largely on rumor and incomplete evidence. President Stratton explained Dr. Rafuse's leaving as the decision of the Board of Trustees after he had consulted with the heads of the academic divisions of the college who are consulted, on occasion, for changes in the departments, the final decision resting with the president. He advised that student expression is misdirected in that students in no college assume the roles of administrators; administrative decisions, therefore, are final.

Commenting on the inadequacy of the quotations, President Stratton said, for example, that he does not possess the information that Dr. Rafuse "was instrumental in organizing a unit of the Ameri-

Britton, Caldwell Chosen To Head '49 Kaleid Staff

Holmberg, Taussig, Bloch Also Obtain Head Positions

Dorothy V. Britton '49, editor; Jean R. Caldwell '49, business manager; Jean D. Holmberg '49, assistant editor; Ellen Taussig '49, associate editor; and Henry Bloch, Jr. '49, managing editor were chosen as the staff of the 1949 Kaleidoscope, Sunday night, May 4.

The try-outs for the Kaleidoscope did all the write-ups for the junior class and for various campus organizations. They had conferences with professors and students, made a dummy fashioned after the plan of Kaleidoscope layout, and finally took tests on the composition and style of the yearbook.

The 1948 Kaleidoscope scheduled to come out during junior week, has been held up by delays in printing and engraving processes.

Mass in B Minor To be Presented By College Choir

The Middlebury College choir will present Bach's "Mass in B Minor" in the high school gymnasium May 25, at 3.30 p.m.

Before the war, the choir attained a considerable reputation throughout the East for its a capella singing. Extended tours in the spring took the choir from Boston to Buffalo and from Montpelier to Washington. Several radio appearances on national hook-ups reached a wider audience. Because of travel and housing difficulties, no tours were planned for this year, but all efforts were directed toward performing the Bach masterpiece.

Accompaniment will be furnished by a small orchestra composed of college students and members of the Vermont state symphony. Alan Carter, conductor of the Vermont symphony and assistant professor of music, will be concertmaster and solo violinist.

Four guest solosists will be featured: Irma Cooper, soprano, Emily Kalter, mezzo-soprano, Brooks Dunbar, tenor, and William McCully, bass.

Irma Cooper, of Iowa, is a graduate of Grinnell college and received her master's degree at the American Conservatory of Music. She has studied with such well-known teachers as Estelle Liebling and Defrere. Her appearances in recital, opera, oratorio, and radio have received high praise from the public.

Emily Kalter has been the featured soloist this season with the San Carlo opera company and she is currently appearing in the Center theater, New York. As well as an operatic star, Miss Kalter has also been a prominent soloist in New York churches for some years.

Brooks Dunbar has a fine reputation as an ensemble singer and a leading tenor with the Philadelphia Opera Company. He has appeared with the NBC Symphony and the Philharmonic. Last summer he was a member of the artist quartet at the summer music school of Bay View, Mich.

William McCully received his early musical training in St. Louis, his home. He has appeared in oratorios with New York churches and has taken leading roles in the smaller opera and light opera companies. This season Mr. McCully took an extensive tour in the midwest with the Chicago Popular Opera Company.

Conductor for this musical performance is H. Ward Bedford, associate professor of music. For the past eleven years, Mr. Bedford has been in charge of the vocal and choral music at Middlebury.

SAA, IRC Present UN Official, May 9

William J. Bruce, Assistant Director of Statistical Office of the United Nations, will speak May 9 at the SAA meeting in conjunction with the International Relations Club.

Mr. Bruce, who has received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Oregon and Stanford University, respectively, has been active in the U. N. since its formation. He served as executive secretary of the San Francisco Conference, and deputy director of the Documents Division for the meetings of the Executive Committee at San Francisco and for the first General Assembly held in London in 1945-46.

From 1943 to 1946 Mr. Bruce was principal economist in the Division of Statistical Standards, U. S. Bureau of the Budget. He is the last SAA speaker scheduled for the season.

Modern Dancers To Offer Recital Tomorrow Night

An enactment of Aesop's fabie, "The Donkey," a composition based on T. S. Eliot's poem "The Hollow Men," and a "Color Suite" will be the highlights in the Modern Dance Club's spring production to be given tomorrow night at 8.30 in the high school gymnasium.

The original choreography in "The Donkey" will be set to music written for the fable by Freda Miller, who has arranged musical accompaniments for many professional modern dancers. The main characters, chosen by tryout, will be: Donkey, Priscilla R. Noyes '49; Boy, Jean E. Scroggie '49; and Father, Virginia L. Stowell '47. The narration will be supplied by Barbara J. Burris '49.

The "Hollow Men" is to be a unique expression of Eliot's poem composed for the dance by Shirley P. March '48 and Lorena M. Laing '49. This work will be accompanied by percussion. The theme of the poem will be evolved by two diverse groups, the hollow men and the lost violent souls, dancing simultaneously.

A series of moods based on the colors red, yellow, black and blue will form the "Color Suite." Individual interpretations of the colors will be danced by Alice C. Hardie '49, Janet E. McIntosh '50, Barbara T. Myers '49, and Virginia C. Main '49, respectively. Jean H. Mace '47 will also present an individual composition based on the music from "Spellbound," and various other dances done to recordings will complete the production.

The construction and lighting for this spring performance will be handled by members of the Players' stage crew. Tickets are fifty cents and will be sold in Monroe tomorrow or may be purchased at the door.

Participating in the production will be the following: Miss Mace, Miss Stowell, Miss March, Betty M. Dean '49, Miss Hardie, M. Ann Holt '49, Helen J. Hutchinson '49, Genevieve Karmazyn '49, Miss Laing, Miss Main, Miss Meyers, Miss Noyes, Wiltrude E. Oberreit '49, Patricia A. Perkins '49, Miss Scroggie, and Miss McIntosh.

Are We United?

The "Letters to the Editor" column this week contains a suggestion that, if carried out, would seriously alter the position of student government on this campus. It is a suggestion that offers many advantages to the students of the college.

The possibility of the establishment of one Student Government for Middlebury College has been advanced, in view of the admitted lack of cooperation and overlapping of the two organizations that now exist. This is not a proposition to merge the Women's Student Union and the Men's Undergraduate Association. The proposal is to completely scrap these two organizations and begin anew with one Student Government. This step would be a radical one, one that would have to be thoroughly investigated, and one that should have the enthusiastic approval of the whole student body before any action is taken.

Just what would a change of this kind mean? And above all would it be possible? At the present time there is to be considered the basic difference between the two existing student governments; namely, that the Men's Assembly employs a system of elected representatives who are empowered to vote as they see fit on every issue, while the Women's Assembly invariably ask the favor of their constituency and vote accordingly. There has been some informal discussion of this difference, but in the case of two separate organizations there has been no need for similarity. If we consider the formation of one Student Government, however, one form will have to be used which would be satisfactory to the whole student body. As the situation now stands, some of the reasons for disagreement between the Men's and Women's Assemblies may be credited to their differences in organization. This would, of course, be avoided if the one Student Government were set up. This obstacle is a technical one, and could, with compromises on both sides, be worked out with other technical difficulties.

More important than this, there are apparent between the two campuses differences in opinion and ideas that at this time amount to a sizeable barrier. As one example of this we see the honor system which is in operation in the Women's Assembly, but which the men have continued to ignore or disapprove. But what can be expected with the two student bodies operating under two separate governments? Such things are a result of the situation as it now stands, and would be eliminated if one Student Government were established. The fact that there does exist a chasm between the thinking of the men and women of Middlebury is a strong argument in favor of the move.

The most obvious and at the same time the most important reason for organizing one Student Government would be the creation of a unified, strong student government in this college. Instead of two organizations which often work at cross purposes, there would be a unified student body working together. This doesn't mean that there wouldn't be factions within that one organization, but it does mean that they would be ironed out in session. At first these differences would work along college lines, but this would be eliminated with time.

If we are ever to gain a united student body in reality, as we now visualize one, a single Student Government is fundamental. Other things, such as the union of classes, would only be a matter of election procedure, as they now really work as one group. It is obvious that here we have a situation that is not compatible with our own mental attitude. If we consider ourselves one student body, then let's take steps to make it that way by the creation of one Student Government.

Letters to the Editor

To Middlebury Students:

Having worked with the Men's Assembly before and since the war and observed student government generally on campus, I have reached some conclusions. It is felt by the majority of students that student government at Middlebury is ineffective. It goes further than that; students are ineffective. The women are always complaining that the men don't cooperate, and the men always feel that the women are trying to put something over on them. Usually neither understands what the other is trying to do.

A vivid example of this is the recent CAMPUS debate. The committee wanted to make the editor-in-chief realize that his job depended on how well the students thought he could deliver what they, as readers, wanted. We felt that organization, which derives its life from our financial support, should be made aware of its duties and obligations to us.

However when the matter came up for debate the Women's Assembly didn't have the vaguest idea of what was really going on. They voted automatically, resisting change.

What is the answer? It is obvious. Get together. The first move would be to junk completely the present assemblies. They are no good; get rid of them. Go to work and set up one student governmental body. You will then be in a position to do something. You will put an end to working at cross purposes. The next step is automatic: unify the classes. How stupid it is to have senior men and senior women, junior men, etc. There is real strength in unity.

"But the college is actually two separate colleges." It is not. Even the administration doesn't believe this. We use to have two separate catalogues; today admissions are under one section in the same catalogue. The rules of the women completely dominate the men. How about a date at the second show? Faculty chaperones are required at dances besides their present list of official duties. We are not men and women, but boys and girls.

It's an old saying that authority and responsibility must be equal. You'll never be able to handle authority and respon-

Opinions of the Week

Do you believe that the Communist Party should be outlawed in the United States?

Dutee J. Hall, Jr. '48, Westport, Conn., Political Science.

There would be great danger in outlawing the Communist party. What is this communist menace? There are no more than 70,000 communists in the country today making up only .05 of 1 per cent of the population, therefore, a revolution would not have much chance of succeeding. We are safeguarded by existing laws against conspiracy, sedition and treason, and anyway, you don't have communist revolutions when you have full employment and a high standard of living. So where is the "clear and present danger"—making it necessary to take repressive measures?

Such a law would itself represent a greater danger. It would be a step away from the democratic concept of the free competition of ideas. When you suppress one idea, where can you stop? There might eventually be a witch hunt against all liberals, progressives, socialists, New Dealers and trade unionists. The law would be a greater threat to our way of life than communism. How senseless it would be to destroy our liberties in the name of saving democracy from communism!

Leonard Leving III '48, Melrose, Mass., French and World Affairs.

To attempt to deal with this question in any way but by generalities would be ridiculous in this small space. I shall try to be specific, nonetheless, in substantiating my general conclusion that the U. S. cannot gain appreciably in its battle against totalitarianism by outlawing the Communist party. First, the last war proved to me that an organization can operate even more effectively underground, to which position the communists would retreat; under these conditions the group becomes more closely knit because of the common grievance of persecution. Second, communism in an equal or lesser degree as regards Soviet communism is the sincere political-economical-social credence of millions of people the world over. To alienate these millions by outlawing communism in the U. S. might well be disastrous. Third, if there is anything of lasting good in the accepted form of government of the West, and if it is applied as closely to the letter as is humanly possible, it can and will win out. To steal thunder from Time magazine and St. Dominic, our greatest opportunity is to "out labor, out fast, and out discipline these false teachers."

Doris M. Smith '47, East Orange, N. J., Major, Political Science

No, I do not think that the Communist party should be expelled. Such an action would be contrary to the democratic faith in freedom of thought. Our minorities must have the right to present their ideas to the public, and if they can convert the majority, then the democratic process has worked.

The danger of group condemnation such as exists against the Communists lies in the false illusions people have come to hold. They conclude that by getting rid of the agitator, they will henceforth have harmony. Instead, they should see what makes the ground fertile for agitation and arrive at clearer, less prejudiced solutions.

As we so often hear, the best ground for Communism is economic instability and depression. If we continue obscuring the real threats to economic wellbeing with emotional outpouring against Communism and Russia, we will bring on the very end we are trying to avoid. So I say, the road to peace and prosperity does not lie in outlawing the Communist party. In the words of Benjamin Franklin, "Those who give up liberty for security, deserve neither liberty nor security."

Frances Farwell '48, Milton, Mass., Major Spanish.

I don't see how abolishing the Communist party in America would in any way solve the problem of communism either at home or abroad. It might do just the opposite by bringing our clash of ideologies with Russia to the boiling point. Certainly, it wouldn't improve U. S.-Russian relationships. Even if we sincerely think communism is a detrimental force here, driving it underground, and creating sympathy for it, isn't the way to beat it. Think of the material for propaganda that it would give the U.S.S.R. in trying to win over the small, disorganized countries: "The United States, traitor to the free speech of her own democracy," admitting she's afraid to compete with communism.

Netmen Shade Union; Win 5-4

Deciding Contest Taken by Doubles Team in Last Set

Winning the last match of the afternoon, Coach Bobo Sheehan's tennis team edged out Union, 5-4, last Saturday on the Schenectady courts in a light but continuous rain.

With each team having won four matches, Felix Rohatyn and Ad Merrick took the court to face the Union team of Herman and Hawkes in the deciding match. With tension running high, the first two sets were split. In the last set the Middlebury pair put on the pressure to win 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

In the first singles match, Captain Al Rice playing in the No. 1 position downed his opponent, Killeen, 6-3, 8-6 in a closely contested match. Bob Parker, by keeping Cronin continually on the defensive, had little trouble in downing him 6-1, 6-0. However, Seab Short ran into a host of trouble. Scheier, whose game featured an unorthodox two-handed stroke, took his measure 6-2, 6-2. Herman deadlocked the meet at two matches apiece by downing Ad Merrick 6-4, 6-4. However, Middlebury regained the lead when Rohatyn defeated Tway 6-2, 6-3. In the last singles contest, Henry defeated Hal Richardson 6-3, 6-2.

At this point the score was deadlocked at 3-3. The three doubles matches would, therefore, be decisive. This seemed to give Union a slight edge as the Midd netmen had been hampered by a lack of practice in doubles competition. However, Rice and Parker got the Panthers off to a good start. Displaying a powerful net game, the Midd pair routed Killeen and Paige in a one-sided match 6-0, 6-2. Union came back to even the score when Cronin and Scheier defeated Short and Richardson 6-1, 7-5. This set the stage for deciding match of the afternoon.

The Midd netmen are gunning for the New England Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis Association tourney, being played this year at Williamstown, Mass., from May 12 to 14. This tourney is the big tennis event of the year and will be attended by most of the small colleges in New England.

Panthers Suffer Setbacks on N.Y., Mass. Diamonds

Midd Bows to Williams In Close Game, 5-4; Union Wins

On April 28 and 29, Coach Ciccolella took to the road with his baseball squad to travel south and meet Williams and Union. Midd went down to defeat at the hands of both teams. The Ephmen eked out a 5-4 victory, while Union had an easier time winning 10-4.

At Williamstown the Panthers were trailing 5-1 going into the top of the ninth but they rallied to score three runs, falling one short of tying the game. Dick Buonerba led the attack in this contest collecting three singles in four trips to the plate. Kailey was second in line with a pair of bingles. All in all Midd garnered nine hits but just couldn't stretch them far enough. Williams also collected nine hits but got more mileage for their nine base knocks.

In the pitching department it was Lloyd Marshall who started on the mound. Lloyd worked seven innings and was charged with the loss. Jack Henty was relieved in the last inning.

The next day the team traveled to Schenectady where Midd hooked up with Union in a slug fest. The home team was met with a barrage of solid blows as the contest got under way, and when the smoke cleared Midd had scored four times in the first inning. This looked like a comfortable lead for starter Warren Frost, but Union refused to say die and pecked away at the lead scoring single tallies in the first and second and blowing the lid off in the third. Before the inning was over five markers had crossed the plate and Midd never regained the lead. After the first inning, the Panthers were blanked at the plate and were held well at bay. They collected a total of seven hits with Jim Sheehan the only one with a pair of safeties.

Champlain Takes 7-3 Win As Midd Slump Continues

Panthers' Twelve Walks Help Champlain's Onslaught

In a game marred by intermittent downpours, the Middlebury Panthers sustained their fourth straight defeat last Saturday, losing to the visiting Champlain nine, 7-3.

The Champlain team owed its victory mainly to a combination of timely hitting and extreme wildness of the Midd mound staff. All told, the Plattsburg batters collected the amazing total of twelve free passes from the assorted offerings of four Panther twirlers, nine of them charged to starting pitcher Jack Henty.

The game was decided to all intents and purposes in the sixth inning. With the count deadlocked at 2-2, the visitors cashed in two of Henty's free tickets. After the right-hander had issued his

Golf Team Defeats Ephmen At Rutland

Last Saturday afternoon the Middlebury golf team came out the winner, for the second time, over the Williams team at Rutland, 8-1.

Jim Marchese (M) beat J. Cole (W) 4 and 2, Roland Boucher (M) beat Chuck White (W) 3 and 1, Ray Nihan (M) beat Cliff MacChoad (W) 2 and 1, Al Wolfley (M) beat Andy Hunter (W) 7 and 6, Robert Boucher (M) beat Pete Griggs (W) 2 up, Don Bates (M) beat Buck Marchese (W) 1 up.

Last Saturday's match finished a tour of three matches and one home match. On April 28, Middlebury beat Williams at Williamstown, Mass., 5½ to 3½. On April 29, Middlebury bowed to the Yale Bulldogs 9 to 0 at New Haven, Conn. On April 30, Middlebury lost to Wesleyan 7 to 2.

On Wednesday, May 7, the Panthers meet their toughest home opposition, the highly favored Dartmouth Indians. They have been named the toughest team in New England; however, the Panthers expect to give them strong opposition for the New England title.

The Intercollegiate Vermont State Championship will be held on Saturday, May 10, at the Rutland Country Club. Middlebury's showing so far this season indicates that the Blue and White should take away some of the top positions in this match.

An interesting sidelight to last Saturday's match against Williams is that Jim Marchese's brother, Buck Marchese, was playing for the Ephmen; however, he did not show the super driving form that Jim shows.

Middlebury Re[illegible] Attend Wil[illegible]en Lose 2nd

[illegible]unners to Face Hamilton College In Dual Meet, Sat.

The track team journeyed over the steeplechase road to Lewiston, Me., for a meet with Bates College Saturday and lost out by the scant margin of four points. Although the track was muddy the Panthers lost but two of the eight track events yet won only two of the seven field events.

This loss can be chalked up as due to the failure of Middlebury College to provide an indoor cage for its athletic teams. The Bates field event men, with a very adequate field house, have been able to practice all spring while our fellows have been looking at the snow and rain stop their practice.

Track Muddy

Through ankle deep mud and an annoying spring rain, Whitey Pearlstein scored Midd's only double victory in the 100- and 200-yard dashes. As usual Dave Stebbins took the 440, but in the 880 Horne of Bates, with a strong kick, managed to squeeze in for the victory. Jim Newman continued his wining ways in the distances by taking the two-mile sludge race. Roy Kinsey came through in the 120-high hurdles, and Don Gilmore hit the tape first in the 220 low hurdle dash. Bob Reed, despite a heavily bandaged leg, again came through with the longest throw in the javelin while Dix Hemphill towered the field in the pole vault, with a 10 ft. 6 in. leap. And to finish up the Panthers' first places, Marty Whittlin, Coach Brown's only experienced weightman, tied with Bates' Mitchell with a 40 ft. 19 in. heave of the 16-pound shot.

The DU [illegible] 2-1 win [illegible] the Chipsies to roll into first place in the birdie circuit. Kyle Prescott took Tom Martin, and Jack Shahan took Dave Smith for the DU Club, while weightman Marty Wittlin defeated Seab Short for the lone Chi Psi win. The Sig Ep racqueteers downed the [illegible] three spot.

Softball

One hundred thirty-three runs were scored in four softball games played last week, for an average of sixteen-plus runs per team per game. The highest score of the week was made by a rejuvenated KDR squad which ran rampant over the hard luck Theta Chis, 30-11. The KDRs have won one, the Theta Chis none.

The Chi Psi ball club made a spectacular display of power with a twenty-four run margin over the luckless ATOs who came out on the shallow side of the 27-3 score. The ATOs are without a victory, while the Chi Psis have yet to be shaded.

Hard hitting gave the DKE nine enough power to match the Chipsies twenty-seven points in beating the Neutral aggregation, but the Deke defense was not as strong as the Chi Psis in allowing eleven Neutral runners to cross the plate. With this win the Dekes maintained their 1.000 average and kept the Neutral men down to a single victory.

The DU Club made it two in a row with a 14-10 victory at the expense of the winless Alpha Slubs. The DUs have a single loss.

Decathlon

Dave Stebbins moved into undisputed first place in the decathlon with a timely second place in the sixty-yard low hurdles. While Dave picked up most of his points on the cinders, his nearest rival, pole vaulter Dix Hemphill, accumulated sufficient points on the cinders and in the field to offer the track co-captain some stiff competition as the end of the decathlon came into sight

Dick Boss, a February frosh, lifted himself into the two-figure class by streaking over the sixty-yard low hurdle course in 7.6 seconds to edge Dave Stebbins, Don Gilmore and Roy Kinsey, the critics' favorites, in both ends of the twice run event.

Boss suffered an injury on the muddy Bates' track last Saturday which somewhat curtailed his usually speedy flight over the obstacles. He led to the 120-yard marker, but lost his footing and

MIDD ANNEXES 4th IN LAKE REGATTA

The Middlebury Sailing Club placed a strong fourth in the New England Association Regatta. The regatta consisting of sixteen New England colleges was held on the Charles River Basin last Sunday at Boston.

Dave Stagg and "Ace" Johnson with the able seamanship of their crews, Penny Baker and Jean Sloan, brought Middlebury within six points of the winning sailors from Wesleyan. This was quite a piece of seamanship in view of the fact that there was flat calm prevailing during four of the races. In the two races that were not drift affairs and depending on a chance breeze the Midd sailors fared better.

This weekend the Middlebury Sailing Club plays host to the women sailing teams from St. Lawrence and Skidmore at a regatta to be held at Ecole Champlain.

Summary: Wesleyan, 63 points; Amherst, 60; Boston College, 58; Middlebury, 57; Colby, 52; Bowdoin, 18.

Honor Students Given Breakfast By Mortar Board

Members of Dean's List were honored by Mortar Board last Sunday, May 4, at the annual May breakfast held in Forest Recreation room.

Mrs. W. Storrs Lee, and Miss Elizabeth W. Baker, who are advisors for Mortar Board also attended the breakfast. Mrs. Reginald L. Cook, who is also an advisor, was unable to attend.

After scrambled eggs, muffins and coffee had been consumed, Joanne E. Buckeridge '47, spoke a few words of welcome to the group, and then produced a quiz designed for the exercise of the aggravated mental progress represented by Dean's Listers.

After the scores were compiled, the prizes were awarded to the winners. The grand prize, in the form of a shiny, red apple, went to Caroline E. Smith '49 for getting the most correct answers. The booby prize was awarded to Nancy M. Becker '49. It was an electric light bulb given for the purpose of encouraging inspirational powers.

Hitchcock Receives Grant To Finance Further Study

Dr. Harold B. Hitchock, chairman of the Biology department, recently received notification of a grant of $450 from the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Boston, to enable him to continue his studies of the migratory habits of bats.

The grant is to be used for traveling expenses to enable Dr. Hitchcock to carry on his investigations of the habits of the small, brown bat, which hibernates during the winter in caves located in an area extending from Renfrew County, Ontario, one hundred miles northwest of Ottawa, to the Mammoth Cave region of Kentucky.

Dr. Hitchcock completed his undergraduate work at Williams college, and his graduate study at Harvard university. He began his independent research into the life of the bat while teaching at the University of Western Ontario in 1939.

Sunday morning the convention will conduct the election of next year's officers. The delegates will also choose next year's host for the conference. Sunday afternoon some of the representatives will hike to Boyce Shelter.

The I.O.C.A. was organized in 1930 at Dartmouth College. This year the convention is being held at Middlebury for the second time since this athletic group's institution. Middlebury first played host to the delegates in 1935.

Memorial Service To Be Held May 10

A special memorial service will be held for Dr. Albert Davis Mead, a former member of the Middlebury College Board of Trustees, on May 10, at 3.00 p.m. in Mead Chapel.

Dr. Mead, who died December 8, 1946, was a native of Middlebury and a graduate of Middlebury College. A distinguished biologist and teacher, he received a Ph.D. from Chicago university and was for many years a vice-president of Brown university. Dr. Mead became a trustee of the College in 1933 and remained an active member until his death.

At the memorial service in Mead Chapel, brief addresses will be made by the Rev. Charles E. Riggs, by Dr. John M. Thomas, former President of Middlebury College, and by Pres. Samuel S. Stratton. Chaplain Marshall Jenkins will lead the devotional exercises. All members of the college and student body are cordially invited to attend.

DOUGLAS HORTON MINISTER-AUTHOR, TO LEAD VESPERS

Dr. Douglas Horton, of New York, will be the speaker at next Sunday's vesper service. He will be accompanied on his visit here by his wife, Mrs. Mildred MacAfee Horton, president of Wellesley College.

Dr. Horton is minister of the General Council of Congregational Christian churches and chairman of the American Committee for World Council of Churches. He has traveled widely throughout the Near East, Asia and Africa. During the last war, Dr. Horton served as a chaplain in the U. S. Navy.

The anthem will be the 150th Psalm set to music by Caesar Franck.

bly, the officers of Student Union, or the Student Union as a whole.

The dean announced that a meeting of the advisory committee shall be called on the day the new Student Union officers are to be installed. Dr. Williams expressed her conviction that the new officers will be able to work with the reorganized advisory committee and added, "I welcome their cooperation."

Although the dean felt it would be indiscreet to make a general statement at this time on her attitude toward women's rules, she definitely stated that the honor system would have to be "more thoroughly understood and more strictly practiced" if it is to become effective.

On the general question of administrative regulations concerning women, Dr. Williams said that girls who enter college instead of going to work need and want a greater maturity than they already have. It is her belief that a certain amount of submission to authority is necessary as "the price one has to pay for group living." Changes, she thought, must be made carefully to prevent "an expressive minority from imposing on the college as a whole changes which are not for the benefit of all."

NOTICE

The procedure for making a basic change in a course taken under the G. I. Bill has been announced by the Veterans Administration.

A request for such a change must be sent to the V. A. Arrangements are made to meet a V. A. vocational advisor to discuss the requested change and possible entrance into a new training program.

can Association of University Professors," in answer to the charge that such activity on Dr. Rafuse's part might have been causal in the review of his contract. Again, he considers it irrelevant as to who the "prominent townsman" may have been who condoned the teaching standards of another professor "who is said to be ready to go elsewhere."

The familiar issue of compulsory chapel was discussed by students and the president recently, at which time he remarked that students possess freedom of choice in application for admission to a college and in this choosing are cognizant of chapel attendance regulations. Therefore, if they, the students, find intolerable the situation which they previously knew to be extant, their only alternative is to exercise again their free choice and leave; thus the quotation, "the next train leaves at 12.37."

The freedom of individuals to act on political and social problems outside the college is, of course, undisputable, contrary to the misinterpretation of the Daily News. However, action by groups recognized by and having a known affiliation with Middlebury College do not possess such unlimited freedom, since action would be construed as college policy. This explanation concerns the proposal by individual members of the Student Action Assembly to conduct off-campus a joint public meeting, the topic of which was to have been concerned with the effect of inflation as exemplified by the rising milk prices.

The quotations as presented seemed to be isolated instances from more complete texts, the examination of which would furnish their own explanations and not the misleading conclusions such instances, alone, suggested.

Magazine Forum Hears Authorities

Alice L. Ashley '47

"Soviet-American Relations" was the topic of discussion at the Forum sponsored by Mademoiselle Magazine on Saturday, April 26, in the Hotel Commodore in New York.

More than 50 students, four of whom were foreign representatives, heard the opinions of such well-known authorities as Frederick Schumann of Williams College, Richard Lauterbach, Time-Life correspondent and photographer, and Joseph Barnes, foreign editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Several of the speakers emphasized the importance of a knowledge of Russia's past history as a means to better understanding of the present problem. John Hazard of the Russian Institute at Columbia University gave a historical perspective to our relations with Russia.

Mr. Schumann saw America's foreign policy as based on American domestic politics and economics. "The leaders and the people have refused to initiate a program looking forward to world government," stated Schumann. He saw the present political situation as a psychological warfare instigated in Washington which introduced a politics of fear whose only outcome could be a struggle among the great powers for areas of domination and security.

In his trip through Russia, Mr. Lauterbach found the average Russian person universally tired of constant war and desirous of peace. He also found a fundamental difference in their basic philosophy of putting economic security before civil liberties. Mr. Lauterbach was impressed by the fact that the U. S. press tends to report only one side of the Russian-American relations.

Student representatives discussed what could be done on college campuses to encourage Soviet-American understanding. The encouragement of Russian civilization courses in all colleges, club activities which sponsor objective studies of international relations, the furthering of foreign student exchange, and the analysis of the news by a wide reading of books and papers was suggested at the Forum.

Middlebury Representatives Attend Williams Conference

Last week-end George C. Newcomb '48 and Joan L. Biggs '48, co-chairman and secretary, respectively, of the 1948 Middlebury Conference attended the annual Spring Conference at Williams College. Other representatives from Middlebury included Mlle Binand, Robert W. Rafuse, Doris M. Smith '47 and Paul D. Davis '47.

Twenty-five participants discussed various aspects of "The Future of American Capitalist Democracy" during a two-day session devoted to five separate panels. At the conclusion of the Sunday morning panel Dean Robert R. Brooks, a participant in the recent Middlebury Culture Conference, summed up the week-end's discussions. He said that the most important conclusion reached was that modern science plus national sovereignty spells the end of man.

He also emphasized the majority opinion that the United States faces a depression within the next few months, and that a large measure of economic planning is not necessarily incompatible with the political liberties cherished by democratic peoples.

In conclusion he listed three basic premises which must attend the judgments we bring to bear on the economic and political problems which face us. First, there can be no peace without world organization; second, no security without economic planning; third, no decency without observing the moral and political requirements of human freedom.

The Middlebury delegates were especially interested in gaining ideas for our conference next spring. They gained several helpful suggestions both from members of the Williams student committee and from several of the Conference speakers.

Supervised Play Planned By Forum

Plans for a new supervised play group for children of pre-school age to meet twice each week on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons has been announced by Women's forum. The purpose of this group is two-fold: To get the young children to play together, and to give the mothers of these children a free afternoon each week.

Activities in the play group will include story telling and games will be played in the yard behind the Community house. Forum is asking all those who are interested to help in this worthy project because many people are needed to make the plan successful.

At a general meeting of Forum held Wednesday, April 30, the slate for next year's officers was presented. The candidates for offices are as follows: President, R. Elaine Phillippi '48, Ann M. Walthall '48 and Jean C. Webster '48; vice-president, Dorcas R. Neal '49, Mary W. Cole '49, and Jean E. Scroggie '49; secretary, Joan M. Ritter '50; Margaret A. Stearns '50, and Barbara L. Wesselman '50; treasurer, Eleanor M. Blanc '49, Virginia W. Duffy '49 and Mary E. Hosford '49.

Forum has also announced that it will hold a picnic supper Friday evening, May 23, on the front lawn of the Community house. Entertainment will be a puppet show presented by the Brownies. All Forum members are invited to attend the picnic for which sign-up sheets are to be posted in the near future.

second walk, Coach Dick Ciccolella replaced him with Lloyd Marshall.

Marshall immediately ran into a hot reception from the power section of the Champlain batting order. Ferise hit a hard drive which center fielder Buonerba took for the out. Maloy then smashed one of Marshall's speed balls down the right field line past Valentine for a triple to bring in the winning tallies.

Champlain had jumped on Henty as early as the third inning. Again it was a walk which started the scoring. Fedele was the recipient of this favor. Ferise sacrificed his teammate to second. When Barquin failed to touch first base, Ferise was also safe. Both runners advanced while Jim Sheehan was handling Maloy's slow-hit grounder. Cook then cut loose with a hot liner which Mulcahy took without moving a step. However, Henty was not to escape unscathed. Shatten, the peppery Champlain catcher, exploded a towering triple landing between Maurer and Buonerba.

The Panthers retaliated in their half of the same inning to tie the score at 2-2 on Barquin's double to right and LaCroix's smash off the first baseman's glove followed by a couple of timely Champlain errors.

Champlain added another pair of runs to their lead in the seventh inning getting them off relief pitcher Marshall. Drinkwater doubled while Johnson and Woods walked. Fedele then drove in Drinkwater and Johnson with a single to left.

The final Champlain tally was made in the last inning off Haven on another walk followed by a pair of singles.

Chipsies Rout Dekes in Baseball

In the wet grass Sunday morning the Chi Psis loaded the high side of a 7-2 score under the fireball pitching of Johnny Rumbold, the people's choice, to sack the Dekes, with Bob Whitestone doing the catching. Walt Nelson caught for the Lodgers.

In allowing only one hit, Rumbold attracted the attention of the varsity spotters, but Rumbold says quite modestly, "I was lucky." Flushed by their success in the initial venture in the hardball field, the Chipsies are open to challenges from any quarter.

Summer Scholarship Opportunities

The annual offer of Fellowships for the Breadloaf Writers Conference, Aug. 13-27, has been announced by Middlebury college.

These fellowships are open to men and women of marked professional promise in the fields of novel, short story, verse, or non-fiction prose. To be eligible, candidates must be nominated by a publisher, editor, literary agent, or a well-known teacher or writer; published work is ordinarily a prerequisite. Nomination may be made informally in a letter to the director, Theodore Morrison, Warren house, Cambridge, Mass. All letters must reach him by June 1.

Applications are currently being received by the Wellesley Institute for Foreign Students for assistantships which are to be awarded for the summer period of July 26 to September 6, 1947. Eight students, four men and four women, preferably juniors, will be accepted for this work and application forms are now available in the office of the dean of men.

The assistantships will pay no regular salary, but they will cover room and board for the six-week period and some of the expenses incurred in connection with the program.

The American Friends Service Committee is now receiving applications for the 1947 session of its international summer seminars which will be held from June 27 to August 16.

The cost of room, board, and tuition is $100, but the committee has enough funds to grant scholarships for the entire amount to all students whom it considers particularly suited and who would not be able to attend otherwise. The seminars are open to all upperclassmen and graduate students. There will be 15 to 20 openings available, with no quota for individual colleges. These interested should write for further information to: Ruth Houghton, American Friends Service Committee, 1374 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge 38, Massachusetts.

The French department recently announced that the French Government Scholarship, established in 1946, will again be available this year.

The scholarship consists of $125 to be awarded to a member of the women's college who is majoring in French, living at the Chateau, and maintaining a high scholastic average.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

sibility while working at cross purposes, distrusting each other. Probably not more than two percent of the business that comes before the assemblies is not of mutual interest. Dormitory problems of the women could be handled by a separate body, designed for that purpose.

"These are unusual times. The boys are more mature today. What will it be like when the high school graduates take over again?" A stupid and shortsighted observation. My answer is to hook your wagon to the mature star, build up a tradition of being responsible men and women. Then, when the high school graduates show up, educate them into that tration. How far more effective the whole college educational program would be then. All education is not a product of the classroom.

Take notice men, it does you no good to gripe. You are no longer in the army. It didn't help there, and it won't here. But here you can do something about that which makes you unhappy. However, I am not fully convinced that you want to do anything. I believe it makes you feel good to sit around and gripe; then you can feel sorry for yourselves.

All of this will take lots of hard work. But I think it is worth doing and worth doing soon. Start your plans now, then come back next year and produce some action. Put this college on the map as being one with a mature, responsible student body. Then watch your honor system work.

Dawson Elected

At a ceremony held just before the elections, twenty-eight new members were initiated into the ranks of the Players, bringing the total membership to approximately 60 members.

New members are admited to the Players when they have obtained 150 points; credits are earned by participation in all phases of dramatic production. Versatility is an essential, since the total number of points cannot be gained in any one field of endeavor, such as acting, but must be representative of backstage activities as well. Fifty points is the maximum for committee work of any kind, while a main acting role can earn as much as 75 points. Points are based, however, on the number of hours worked.
